

Sinterklaas sometimes think he and Cate have the same job, Not because they both occasionally have a corn cob. Still, because their job is making other people happy, Sinterklaas by bearing gifts, Cate by being snappy, Not snappy in the sense of bossing one around, But by making sure she leaves it better than she's found, And all the Tunga clients like someone who can take charge, When the issue's small, and when the issue's significant.

Sinterklaas and cate get to meet everyone once in a while because they primarily work remotely but even the remote nature of their work can't stop cate from taking care of Tunga clients.

Sinterklaas brings balance to cate's life, she's found peace in knowing that Sinterklaas will provide the gifts while she takes care of the clients 😊

Sinterklaas knows the cate's secret, "chicken wings" and each year Sinterklaas throws in a couple of them at the bottom of the cate's gifts box just to watch the looks on her face.

"I didn't expect this," says cate while she takes the first bite of the finger-licking chicken wings.

Cate takes her job of taking care of Tunga clients, Sinterklaas knows this and that's why he comes around only once a year 😊